Lewis Evans was the youngest of four children born to Mabel Mary Evans and William Welston Evans on 9 February 1926 in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. Brother John was born in 1916, sister Decima in 1918 and brother Richard in 1920. William, sometimes referred to as Welston, was born in 1887 in Wales and emigrated to Canada in 1906. Mabel was born in England in 1896 and emigrated in 1911. They were married in Radisson, Saskatchewan, about 40 miles northwest of Saskatoon and made their home on a farm which William owned in the district. According to the 1926 census, the family left the farm and moved to Saskatoon in 1926 and made their home in an apartment in a pleasant neighbourhood overlooking a park and the South Saskatchewan River. Lewis' father William quickly found employment with Boyd Brothers, a large Chevrolet Oldsmobile dealer- a job he held until retirement. This steady employment allowed the family to weather the Great Depression. Lewis attended King Edward Public School (grades 1-8) and City Park Collegiate Institute (grade 9) before leaving school finally at the age of 15 in 1941. During Lewis' transition from public school to high school, the family moved to a house in a comfortable neighbourhood. On 1 September 1942, at the age of 16, Lewis joined the Saskatoon Light Infantry (Non-Permanent Active Militia) as a private and served until 3 September 1943. Also at 16, he went to work as a warehouseman in a major flour mill operated by Robin Hood Mills Ltd. in Saskatoon. By then the drought which had devastated cereal crops was truly over and ample supplies of grain were available for milling.

On 4 September 1943, Lewis was sworn in at the Saskatoon Division (HMCS Unicorn) of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve as an Ordinary Seaman (Temporary). Lewis' oldest brother, John, had enrolled in the Royal Canadian Air Force earlier in the war and by March 1945 was a Flight Lieutenant serving at No. 15 Service Flight Training School, Claresholm, Alberta. Upon enrollment Lewis was single, 5 feet 8 3/8 inches tall and weighed 138 pounds. He had brown hair, blue eyes and a fair complexion.

Lewis spent the first three and a half months at Unicorn attending to appointments and taking some training on "Divisional Strength". On 22 December he transferred to "Active Service" at Unicorn and began basic training in earnest. On 23 February 1944 he was drafted to HMCS Cornwallis in Deep Cove, Nova Scotia to take New Entry training. On completion Lewis was drafted to HMCS Stadacona in Halifax for administrative purposes before being drafted to HMCS Shawinigan on 14 June 1944.

HMCS Shawinigan (K136) was a Flower class corvette built by George T. Davie & Sons Ltd., Lauzon, Quebec. Commissioned on 19 September 1941, at Quebec City, HMCS Shawinigan was named for the town of Shawinigan Falls located on the Saint Maurice River 22 miles upstream from the St. Lawrence River. Her service life was busy and varied. By the time Lewis joined her in April 1944, Shawinigan had worked as a convoy escort for 39 merchant ship convoys, and she had just completed a second refit during which her forecandle was extended. Lewis' first voyage in her was to Bermuda for work ups.

On completion of work-ups, Shawinigan would complete five more escort taskings successfully. Then, on 24 November 1944 Shawinigan and the United States Coast Guard Cutter Sassafras escorted the ferry Burgeo, from Sydney, Nova Scotia to Port aux Basques, Newfoundland. Since the sinking of the ferry Caribou in 1942, ferries on this route were always escorted. Enroute Sassafras was detached from the escort without relief. With Burgeo safely delivered, Shawinigan informed Burgeo that she would rendezvous with her in the morning, and she departed on an independent anti-submarine patrol. At 0230 on 25 November, Shawinigan was torpedoed by the German submarine U-1228 in the Cabot Strait. Later that morning Burgeo left Port aux Basques on schedule in dense fog. Unable to find Shawinigan and keeping radio silence, Burgeo proceeded to Sydney unescorted. On arrival at 1800 it was evident that Shawinigan was missing. Over the next three days searchers looked for survivors and were only successful in finding flotsam and, eventually, the remains of five members of Shawinigan's ship's company. HMCS Shawinigan was one of three Canadian warships that have been lost with all hands. The entire crew of ninety-one, including Ordinary Seaman Lewis Evans, perished.

Lewis like most of the others who perished has no known grave. The exceptions are the five whose remains were recovered. They were returned to their families for burial in their home communities. The entire ship's company is remembered by a memorial in the City of Shawinigan and a stained glass window in the chapel at Canadian Forces Base Halifax. Lewis is commemorated on the Halifax Memorial, Panel 11. Additionally, Evans Lake (Lat 56° 55'N Long 103° 31' W) in Northern Saskatchewan is named in his memory.

For his service, Ordinary Seaman Lewis Evans was awarded the Atlantic Star, the Canadian Volunteer Service Medal and Clasp, and the War Medal. His mother, Mrs. Mabel Evans, was awarded the Memorial Cross.
